

Pollution Fund Faces Senate Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A stepped-up $775 million attack on air pollution has passed the House with great ease, but a fight could be brewing in the Senate over setting nationwide air quality standards.

The three-year extension and expansion of 1967 clean air legislation sailed through the House Wednesday, 374-1, directing that national air quality standards be set. The wide-ranging bill also deals with cars, plants, fuels and planes.

But Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of a Senate air and water pollution subcommittee, said: "We're trying to work out something that would avoid the built-in traps of national standards."

The House bill directs the secretary of health, education and welfare to set national standards 30 days after enactment.

Pollutants to be regulated include sulfur oxides, particulate matter (like dust), carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons and photochemical oxidants. States could set stricter standards.

Muskie fears national standards could minimize control of air pollutants. He noted metropolitan areas require tougher standards than rural areas.

Under present law, air quality standards for adjoining areas are to be adopted by states on the basis of criteria set by HEW.

The House bill also puts each state in an air quality region. The existing statute directs HEW to establish air quality control regions. Muskie has favored this approach in the past.

House members, however, contend only a few such regions have been established so far under the three-year-old law.

The House bill would set authorized spending for federal air pollution programs at $200 million a year beginning July 1. The level now is about $93 million to $96 million.

The funds would be increased to $250 million in the second year and $325 million in the last 12-month period. All amounts would be subject to actual appropriations at a later time.

Cites Law on Voting Machines

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office ruled Wednesday that a County Board of Election Commissioners is required to "institute a plan" for buying voting machines if the majority in an election votes for the use of the machines.

The opinion, by Deputy Atty. Gen. Tom Tanner, suggested that a "citizen that feels that the mandate of the people has not been followed may exercise the right of mandamus."

The opinion went to Theo J. Hiegel, a justice of the peace in Conway, who asked if the Faulkner County Board of Election Commissioners can decide not to install voting machines. Faulkner County residents approved the use of voting machines in 1968 but the board has not purchased the equipment.

"There are better methods for settling disputes than killing young men," she said, "but we—the public—have only ourselves to blame that they aren't being used."

Last fall, she walked in moratorium marches in Georgia and California. Two years ago, she led a rally of women in a march on Capitol Hill to protest the Vietnam war. The rally was dubbed the Jeanette Rankin brigade.

Miss Rankin, who divides her time between homes in Montana and Georgia, also writes numerous letters and makes countless telephone calls to members of Congress urging an end to the war. She wishes every American would do the same.

"But don't just state your position," she cautions. "Always ask a question. And be prepared to write a half dozen times before you get an answer."

Miss Rankin would like to see a female congressman from every district. "Maybe we wouldn't do any better than the men but we certainly couldn't do any worse," she said.

Women are too dependent on men, she said, to realize their full potential.

"If they're independent, talkative and say what they think they can't get a job or husband. Look at me," she said jokingly. "unmarried and unemployed most of my life."

Personnel Puzzle Faces President

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, hoping his support wave of administration personnel switches will give him a firmer grip on policy making and execution, nevertheless faces a potential problem in the appointment of two strong-willed men to head his new superagencies.

Nixon announced Wednesday he had named Labor Secretary George P. Shultz as the first head of a new Office of Management and Budget, which will expand and absorb the Old Bureau of the Budget.

But in disclosing Shultz's appointment, the President did not mention another new administration creation—the Domestic Council, whose executive secretary is John D. Ehrlichman, one of Nixon's closest associates and a strong-willed adviser.

Both the Council and the Shultz office will begin to function July 1. In proposing their creation in a March 12 reorganization plan, Nixon made it appear the two new bodies would function smoothly and without conflict, saying:

"The Domestic Council will be primarily concerned with what we do; the Office of Management and Budget will be primarily concerned with how we do it and how well we do it."

Shultz, who is as talented as Ehrlichman, was asked Wednesday how his agency and the new council will work together. His reply:

"Now there is an awful lot of how and how well in the what, and an awful lot of what in the how and how well; that is obvious. But these two methods have to mesh together, and I am sure that we can work this out."

Nixon said he expected the new arrangement to help streamline government and even eliminate a layer of bureaucrats from top federal management.

But at this point, a great deal depends on whether lawyer Ehrlichman and economist Shultz "can work this out."

Nixon appears convinced the two men will reach an accommodation because, from all outward evidence, he is tired of public quarrels on controversial questions among prominent figures inside his administration.

For example, his action last Saturday in nudging old friend Robert H. Finch out of the secretaryship of Health, Education and Welfare and onto the White House staff was seen by many as a move to quiet controversies involving HEW.

More than once, Finch had differed with positions ultimately taken by his chief, and the department itself had become a center of discontent.

It may be, as Nixon stated, that he wanted Finch's counsel on a fulltime basis. The fact remains the President's nominee to replace Finch, Elliot L. Richardson, will be expected to keep a firmer administrative grip on the sprawling department and mute any outward signs of discord.

One apparent move in that direction was taken Wednesday with the firing of Dr. James E. Allen as commissioner of education.

ONE MOMENT (from Page One)

Hike into the hills and shout your woes aloud until the echoes make you realize how insignificant they are.

Go into a park and listen to the children laugh.

Go to a zoo and feed peanuts to the elephant.

Make a game out of seeing how many hours a day you can let pass without complaining about anything or criticizing anyone.

Pour out your troubles to an old friend who is really fond of you.

Ponder the wisdom of the old saying, "This, too, will pass." Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is one of many who found comfort in this four-word remedy.

Pray. Pray not just lying in a lonely bed at night, but in your heart at your desk, or in a dimly lit church during your lunch period.

Summed up, all these cures for the blues have one basic thought: Don't just sit there feeling sorry for yourself. Get up and do something—right now. Almost any change or action you take, within the limits of common sense, will probably make you feel better.

Peace Near in Jordan, Says King

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

King Hussein said today that the situation in his divided, bloodied nation "is improving rapidly" after three days of fighting between Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army troops.

"We shall do our utmost to bridge the gap and bury dissension," the king said in a broadcast. "The members of the armed forces and the guerrillas are our sons."

Most communication links with the Jordanian capital were still out, but reports filtering out of Amman said about 500 persons have been killed or wounded in the past three days of fighting. Travelers arriving in Beirut said shooting was still going on Wednesday night, but there was no word whether fighting was continuing today.

In the course of the civil strife Wednesday, guerrillas killed a U.S. military attaché in front of his wife and two children and held 14 Americans and 18 other foreigners hostage in the Amman Intercontinental Hotel. Two Americans, both newsmen, escaped.

Hussein's broadcast was directed to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and President Muammar Kaddafi of Libya, who had both cabled the king and guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat appealing for an end to the fighting.

Hussein reached cease-fire agreements with Arafat's Al Fatah organization on Tuesday and Wednesday, but it appeared that both the king and the commando leader were being outflanked by extremists.

Arab diplomats in Beirut said the battle continued for so long because Hussein's cousin, Sherif Zeid Ben Shaker, turned it into a blood feud after his sister was killed by a stray bullet.

Ignoring orders from the king, Shaker commanded his armored division to shell Palestinian refugee camps around Amman, the sources said. Guerrillas from the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine—a group to the left of Arafat—then occupied the International Hotel and declared the 32 foreigners hostages.

Although the night before Hussein had predicted "destruction and annihilation" for his nation if the fighting continued, today he said that "we shall be able to overcome the difficulties and heal our wounds."

"I shall not settle for anything less than that this stage shall become a radical turning point after which each side will know its duties and its arena and act accordingly to mobilize... for the battle of the liberation" of Palestine, he said.

There was still no indication, however, whether the guerrillas had agreed to curb their operations against Israel from Jordanian territory, as Hussein wants them to, or whether the fighting this week had forced the monarch to give the Palestinians a free hand.

The Syrian government vowed Wednesday night that it would become involved on the side of the guerrillas if the fighting continued.

Political Fund Drive Not Barred

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office said Wednesday there is no state law against individuals or groups soliciting funds on state-owned property for political candidates.

John Conine, manager of National Laundry and Cleaners, congratulates Joel Kinsey, on the right, who is being honored this week by Drycleaning World for his professional drycleaning skill.

Kinsey successfully removed a difficult mystery spot on a swatch of material sent to him by Drycleaning World. Drycleaning World stated that Mr. Kinsey did a perfect job.

Mr. Kinsey's method of removal will be passed on to all cleaners by Drycleaning World so that all may profit by Mr. Kinsey's spotting excellence.

The award is now prominently displayed at National Laundry and Cleaners here.

Marijuana Clemency Explained to State Legislator by WR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has said in a letter that one reason for two former Arkansas State University students were granted freedom after being convicted of possession of marijuana and LSD was because of conditions in the Arkansas penal system.

The letter, which Rockefeller indicated he hoped to keep from newsmen, was to state Rep. Jimmy Doyle Hunt of Jonesboro, who asked in a letter May 19 for a "public and detailed explanation" why Buel Lee Hensley, 18, of Heber Springs and Gary Turner, 24, of Wynne were freed a few days after their conviction.

They were sentenced to six years in prison and fined $2,000 each in Circuit Court at Jonesboro. Rockefeller granted Turner executive clemency and the state Board of Pardons and Paroles pardoned Hensley immediately.

In his letter to Hunt, Rockefeller noted that neither Turner nor Hensley had ever before been convicted of a felony.

The governor wrote that he and the board "gave considerable weight" to the judgments of Prosecutor Gerald Pearson of Jonesboro and counsel for the defendants that a fine of $2,000 each and probation for three years "would be the most appropriate penalty for the offense and would be the most likely means of affecting an attitudinal change on the part of Mr. Hensley and Mr. Turner."

Rockefeller noted this recommendation was rejected along with a request for permission to withdraw the defendant's earlier pleas.

"Finally, in choosing between alternatives of imprisonment in the Arkansas Department of Correction and probation or parole, I must of necessity give weight to conditions in the Arkansas Department of Correction," Rockefeller wrote. "Due to a lack of funding, the Department of Correction has been limited in effective academic and vocational programs. There is also a lack of professional counselors, psychiatrists, psychologists, sociologists, men and women who are professionally trained in affecting attitudinal changes."

Rockefeller said that it was his judgment, as well as that of the board of Pardons and Paroles, that "not only was there a better likelihood of affecting an attitudinal change by parole or probation but that imprisonment in the Arkansas Department of Correction would, in all probability, further embitter the individual offender against society for closing forever any chance of affecting attitudinal change."

The governor then said he was not furnishing copies of his letter to news media "by reason for so doing is that I do not choose to participate in the further public destruction of these two young men and I trust you (Hunt) will not permit these emotionally tinged cases to be kicked into the political arena. I do not believe the public interest would be served by so doing."

Nixon to Put New Man in Labor Post

By CARL C. CRAFT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — New title cards have been dealt to some Nixon administration loyalists, and an outspoken dissident has been fired, in the latest round of executive office shake-ups.

President Nixon announced Wednesday he is switching George P. Shultz, who is making $60,000 a year as secretary of Labor, to head of a super-agency to handle domestic spending programs.

As leader of the new governmental unit—to be called the Office of Management and Budget, an expanded version of the old Bureau of the Budget—Shultz will keep his Cabinet rank but at only $42,500.

Just last Saturday, Robert H. Finch, accepting a similar salary slash in leaving his $60,000 job as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, became the first Nixon Cabinet member to move elsewhere. Nixon named him to the White House staff as a presidential counselor.

Nixon, who reached into the State Department for Undersecretary Elliot Richardson to succeed Finch at HEW, stayed within the Labor Department in tapping Undersecretary James Hodgson as successor to Shultz.

After the mid-afternoon disclosure of the Shultz switch, word came that James E. Allen, a critic of administration policies ranging from school desegregation to the military move into Cambodia, was fired as commissioner of education.

Finch announced he "asked for and received" the resignation—although the outgoing secretary's statement carried no explanation for the step.

Meanwhile, the U.S. ambassador to Columbia said he was resigning. Wednesday night, Jack Hood Vaughn said in Bogota he has submitted his resignation. But he denied reports of disenchanted with the administration's Latin American position.

In other personnel shuffling Wednesday: Caspar Weinberger, current chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, was picked to be deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, which starts operations July 1.

Robert P. Mayo, who has directed the budget agency that will be abolished at the end of the month, was designated as a presidential counselor, but Nixon indicated Mayo will not remain long in government service. The President said Mayo had committed himself to only a brief tour.

Wednesday's revisions were the latest in a series of executive branch personnel changes.

It was learned Tuesday that James J. Gallagher, the government's No. 3 education official, resigned with parting shots at federal school policies in general and the administration in particular.

A week earlier, June 3, Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, who complained of political intervention in scientific affairs and faltering White House leadership, was fired as director of the National Institute of Mental Health.

In early May, Anthony J. Moffett Jr., quit as head of the division of students and youth in the Office of Education, accusing the administration of derision of youthful antiwar demonstrators and alienation of youth in general.

Last Feb. 17, Leon E. Panetta resigned as head of HEW's civil rights division.

Europe May Pay to Keep U.S. Troops

BRUSSELS (AP) — Defense ministers from 14 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met today amid talk of a European cash offer to stave off threatened U.S. troop withdrawals from Europe.

A high-ranking West German source said his government was pressing other European NATO members to make a joint payment to the United States to help defray the cost of keeping 300,000 troops in Europe.

The source indicated that the idea was still in its infant stage, with nothing decided as to what nations might participate or how much they might put up.

U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told a reporter he knew of the plan and the intention to make it public.

European defense ministers will meet here in September to discuss the proposal. Plans must be ready by fall if they are to affect the U.S. budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1971.

In recent years West Germany has helped defray most of the foreign exchange loss involved in maintaining U.S. troops in Europe by buying equipment and bonds in the United States.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

FAMINE IN THE MIDST OF PLENTY
Dea Helen: I've started to write you many times, but never finished the letters. It all sounds crazy and selfish. I have everything, yet I'm so depressed I dream of killing myself.

I have great parents, a nice home, many friends, a part time job. I'm in the top ten percent of my class and college bound. That's a big part of my problem, I guess.

The work is twice as hard in my advanced classes, and the pressure and competition is fantastic. My pride forces me to keep up, pretend it's a breeze, but if college is to be the same, can I take six more years?

Lately I've begun to doubt the validity of grades, school, society, life. When you don't have time left to read the books you love because you have too much meaningless homework; when you can't see the subject because of the grades; when you cram for exams (or waste time on dull reports) on courses that have no relevance but will only "get you into college," well, it's like you were two people. The free, honest part of you is floating invisible but close, watching that "fireball" down there and wondering, "How long will she keep on fooling them? When will she break?"

And the fireball, with her urge to excel and make people proud of her, keeps driving for "A's" and wishing that other self would go away and leave her alone.

My two selves clash on social pressures too. My clique is safe, secure, like my family. Our little world isn't open to those others who might not think as we do. In fact, you're a traitor if you "think different." My invisible self hates the narrow, gossip, snobishness, and again wonders, "How long?"

I feel trapped and frustrated. I can't change the world because I can't change myself. I try reaching out to people not in my "group," but there's sort of a mutual distrust. I can't confide in my "don't care" friends. Even my parents don't really listen.

It's horrible to be thought of as popular but to be so all alone. I want to get involved in worthwhile things, but I'm so busy preparing myself for a life I don't want that I've forgotten how to live.

So long as I perform, like a circus horse going through its tricks, I'm a sweet child, a credit to the school. It's all so phony.

I guess I'm a self-pitying brat who doesn't know when she's got it good, but lately I dream more and more of joining that "invisible me" even if I must cop out to do it. But that would admit failure, something I mustn't even think about! Do I need a psychiatrist or ---

How can I get together with myself again?—THE TWO OF ME

Dear "ME": Your letter says so very well what many young people are thinking these days: You resent false values, are impatient at time wasted on "meaningless" pursuits, yet you feel guilty for not appreciating your "good life." You are an achiever who wonders if the achievements are worthwhile, but you're caught on the treadmill because you must excel.

It's an occupational hazard of being brilliant—to be upset with a world that pays too much attention to unnecessary things; bothered by the mercenary aspects of life—and worried because you fear you may fall in to that trap, too.

More than a psychiatrist, I think you need long talks with the kind of involved person you hope to be—a teacher, counselor, minister. Someone who has "been through it." Perhaps he'd show you that even those "stupid" assignments may make sense. I'm sure he'd help you realize we must take that which we sometimes don't like in order to reach a point (a college degree) where we can change "the system" for the better later on. It takes patience!—H.

Flood Case Studied by the Judge

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The hands on the clock of room 1505 in the Federal Court building stretched past 3 p.m. as Judge Irving Ben Cooper, the mustachioed jurist who has been hearing the Curt Flood case, spoke to the silent assemblage.

"We now close," said Judge Cooper, "the one and only trial record in this case."

And that, until Judge Cooper hands down his decision, is the immediate significance of the Flood case—the first court hearing in history in which the merits of baseball's controversial reserve system have been argued.

Then Judge Cooper acknowledged that the proceedings, covering 21 witnesses testifying to about 2,000 pages of trial transcript in three weeks and a day, had been fought by counsel for both sides as "a cause" that compelled him "to sail with the utmost care."

"We are," said Judge Cooper, "resolved to call them as we see them as they come across the plate."

With that the judge reserved decision and the public proceedings of Flood's $3 million antitrust suit challenging the legality of the reserve system ended Wednesday following final testimony by Bill Veeck, a hassle over several documents and a challenge to the memory of a key defense witness.

Veeck, a flamboyant, unconventional former club owner, brought laughter and several alternatives to the reserve clause to the court room as the last of the 10 witnesses to appear for Flood. But the atmosphere changed after his testimony.

First, there was considerable debate and protestations by baseball's defendants over several documents Flood's attorneys wanted accepted in evidence, and then there was a hush in the court room as the defense recalled John Gaherin to the stand.

Gaherin, the owners' labor negotiator, contradicted several statements made Tuesday by Marvin Miller, the executive director of the Players Association, and provoked a challenge under cross-examination by Jay Topkis, one of Flood's attorneys.

"Did Mr. Miller deliberately tell untruths or is your memory better?" Topkis asked Gaherin. "I guess," Gaherin replied, "my memory was better than his."

"It is conceivable isn't it," Topkis then asked, "that on certain matters his is better?" "It's conceivable," replied Gaherin.

And with that testimony concluded—leaving in question the subject in dispute: Did the Players' Association stop bargaining on modifications to the reserve clause system when Flood instituted suit? Miller said they hadn't, Gaherin contended they had.

Earlier in the day, a packed court room, including Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Justice Arthur Goldberg, Flood's chief counsel, returned to the scene of the trial—although Flood did not—as the controversial Veeck took the stand.

Veeck did not disappoint the curious, appearing as usual in a wide-labeled, open-at-the-neck shirt, quipping about his relationship with baseball's brass and refusing to directly admit that he had mellowed somewhat in his appreciation of his former colleagues.

"I think," said Veeck, "it's because I don't have to associate with them as closely any more."

While Veeck's testimony—which included tracing an ownership career in which he turned $11 in his pockets into approximately $1 million through minor league and major league club ownership—was humorous at points, it also was considered significant to Flood's case.

Although Flood's suit strikes at the legality of the reserve clause, the contract provision which binds a player to the club that signs him until he is traded, sold or released—the former St. Louis outfielder is in fact only seeking modification of the clause.

Veeck, the only witness for Flood to bring an owner's perspective to the court room, testified that modification would not result in chaos if accomplished "in an orderly fashion" and "might work out to benefit management."

He suggested three alternative contracts: pro football's option clause; the movie industry's standard seven-year contract after which a performer is free to negotiate for himself; and a possible arrangement by which a club's hold on a player would be limited by contract both in the minors and the majors.

Veeck said he thought the alternatives workable and said he favored them because "everybody, at least once in his business career, should be able to determine his own future—not be held in perpetuity."

The reserve clause does exactly that.

Astros Turn Back Mets by 5 to 2

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Pepitone a leadoff hitter? Never. Even the colorful ex-Yankee couldn't believe it. But Houston Manager Harry Walker did, and the New York Mets were certainly convinced.

"When I saw my name there, I thought he (Walker) had the lineup upside down," Pepitone said Wednesday night after clouting a fifth inning grand slam homer in leading the Astros to a 5-2 triumph over the Mets.

"I asked myself, 'What am I doing in this position?,' Pepitone said. "But after tonight, I want to stay there." Pepitone also led off Tuesday night, the first time he had ever batted there in his major league career.

In other National League games, Cincinnati rolled to its fifth straight victory, a 7-0 blanking of Montreal, Atlanta downed Philadelphia 5-1, San Diego slugged Chicago 11-7, Los Angeles stopped St. Louis 4-2 and San Francisco topped Pittsburgh 4-2.

In American League play, the New York Yankees nipped Minnesota 2-1, Baltimore edged California 2-1, Oakland nudged Cleveland 6-4, Washington ripped Kansas City 8-1, Detroit whipped Milwaukee 7-5 and Boston nipped Chicago 7-8 in 14 innings.

Pepitone, the 28-year-old first baseman-outfielder who came to the Astros over the winter from the New York Yankees in exchange for Curt Blefary, capped a five-run fourth inning explosion off Mets' fireballer, Nolan Ryan, 4-5, snapping Houston's four-game losing streak.

The home run was Pepitone's 12th of the season and gave him 26 runs batted in to go with his .261 batting average. With the Yankees, the long-haired southpaw swinger slugged 166 home runs and drove in 541 runs over eight seasons with a .252 average.

The Reds, winning for the 10th time in 11 starts and threatening to make a runaway of the West Division race, leading runner-up Atlanta by 10 games, got a pair of three-run homers from Tony Perez and Bernie Carbo and three-hit pitching from Jim McGlothlin.

Perez, who slugged his 21st homer of the season—tops in the majors—to go along with 63 RBI, says he "has set no goals. I will continue to take all my home runs as they come."

McGlothlin, however, how 8-3, said: "I've got to win all these games to keep up with my roommate (Jim Merritt, 11-3). The way this team has been playing there is a good possibility that we can end up with four 20-game winners."

George Stone swept to his sixth victory, tossing a three-hitter and Bob Tillman keyed a four-run Braves' second inning flurry with a two-run single.

The triumph snapped Atlanta's four-game losing streak. Stone, a left-hander who has lost only once, struck out five Expos and walked three.

Chris Cannizzaro drove in three runs and Ollie Brown and Ivan Murrell slashed homers overcoming a four home run barrage by the Cubs.

Clarence Gaston, Nate Colbert and Brown each had two RBI for the Padres while Billy Williams, Jim Hickman, John Callison and Paul Popovich ripped homers for the Cubs.

Joe Moeller hurled his first major league complete game in six years as the Dodgers snapped a four-game skid. The right-hander, 2-1, last completed a game in 1964. He struck out seven and scattered seven hits to the Cardinals.

Los Angeles got only five hits but four Cardinal hurlers issued six walks, two hit batsman and a wild pitch with starter Mike Torrez, 4-6, picking up the loss.

Eighth inning homers by Willie Mays and Ken Henderson helped the Giants overcome the Pirates. Willie McCovey's 19th homer of the season had given the Giants two earlier runs. Mays' No. 14 this year gave him a career total of 614, exactly 100 behind the major league record of 714 held by the late Babe Ruth.

psychological. After all, I've won three tournaments here so I should love it. However, I'm going to have to play well to win. This is a tough field."

Canadian Sandra Post Elliott, who dethroned Kathy here in a playoff as a young single lass two years ago, was back to challenge for the title.

British Would Buy Yankees, CBS Says No

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerome

D. Hoffman, the president of a London investment company, arrived in New York late Wednesday night, ready to purchase the New York Yankees from the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Although informed that CBS has said the team is not for sale, Hoffman remained undaunted. "We'll see what happens," he said. "We don't want to embarrass anyone."

"We can go $20 million, $22 million, $25 million. It all depends on the books. If they want to sell we want to buy."

Hoffman, a former St. Louisan who is president of International Investors Group Services Ltd., said he had talked by telephone with former New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who is board chairman of the investment group, and will see him today.

He also said he received a call from Michael Bruek, president of the Yankees, while he was in London, but he didn't elaborate on the call.

Burke said late Wednesday "the club is not for sale."

Whitworth Bids for Ladies Title

By DAVE O'HARA

Associated Press Sports Writer

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) —

Kathy Whitworth, the tall Texan who is the all-time top money winner on the women's golf tour, returned to one of her favorite courses today for the start of the $30,000 Ladies PGA championship.

"This is just like coming home," Miss Whitworth said before teeing off in the 72-hole competition at Pleasant Valley Country Club's long and exacting par 73 layout.

Although she complained of recent putting troubles, Kathy had high hopes of dominating a starting field of 67 pros and regaining the LPGA title she won on these same long fairways and mammoth greens in 1967.

"I don't know what it is, but I always seem to do well here," she said. "Maybe it's partly

Texas, Socal. Open College World Series

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA (AP) — The Texas

Longhorns and Southern California Trojans, old hands in baseball tournament competition,

take on a pair of strong up-

starts to open the College World

Series Friday night.

The double-elimination tournament, drawing eight NCAA district winners throughout the nation, will stretch about a week, including scheduled play for the first time on Sunday. There will be a new champion since Arizona State failed to win a return trip.

After Friday's doubleheader, there will be three afternoon-night games Saturday and the same slated for Sunday. By this time, a winners-losers bracket should be formed up and two teams eliminated by absorbing their second losses.

Texas 36-6 opposes the Delaware Blue Hens (22-4) at 5:30 p.m. CDT Friday in Omaha's Rosenblatt Stadium, followed at 8:30 p.m. by Southern California (47-1) facing the Ohio University Bobcats (31-4).

The two losers will meet Saturday at 1:30 p.m. That night, the Florida State Seminoles (45-7) play the Arizona Wildcats (44-16) and the Dartmouth Indians (23-6) engage the Iowa State Cyclones (18-9).

Sunday's timetable calls for games between Saturday's loser as well as games between Friday and Saturday's winners.

Here is a brief rundown of the teams:

Texas—Making 14th trip and winner in 1949-1950 to be only team taking consecutive championships. Team batting .298 headed by Tom Harmon and David Chalk, .354 each, and slugger John Langerhans, nine homers. Team pitching 1.59 ERA with Burt Hooton 10-1, James Street (football quarter-back; 8-1 and lefty Mike Beard 7-0).

Delaware—World Series debut. Hitting .307; pitching 2.37. Bruce Fad batting .446 and Dave Yates .390. Hurlers include Ted Zink 7-0 and Doug Hopper 7-2.

USC—Winning streak of 13. In 11 trips, champion five times, last in 1968. Batting .81 and pitching .236. Dave Kingman .417 at plate and switch-hitter Dan Stollrosz .335 with 50 RBIs and a tourney high of 14 homers. Brent Strom, 13-1, and Jim Barr, 12-1, both pitching on 1968 title squad.

Ohio U.—Making first appearance with meet's best won-lost percentage of .886 and 12-game victory string. Also tops field in team batting .331. Pitching 2.61. Mike Hannah tourney's No. 1 batter with .447 while Terry Raszka is .362 with 45 RBIs. All regulars hitting .292 or better.

Florida State—Batting .286. Pitching 1.56, tourney's best ERA. Second baseman Dick Nichols, at 5-6 smallest player, hitting .362. Six with 31 or more RBIs headed by Ron Cash 11. On mound Gene Ammann 13-0 with lowest ERA of 0.60; lefty Pat Osburn 11-2 and 1.03; 132 and 136 strikeouts, respectively.

Arizona — A come-from-behind team that scored five times in the ninth to beat Denver for District 7 title. World Series finalist in 1956, 1959 and 1963. Batting .319. Pitching 4.17, tourney's highest. Steve Mikulic batting .408 and tops with 56 RBI and 91 hits; also has stolen 15 bases in 16 tries. Rod O'Brien .375. On the mound Leon Hooten 12-4, Mickey O'Hara 8-3 and lefty Larry Dierks 8-1.

Dartmouth—First trip and a 20-game winning streak, meet's longest. Batting .273. Pitching 2.79. At plate Bruce Saylor .362 and Bud Dagirmanjian .315. Frontline hurlers Pete Broberg, sophomore, 6-1 and Chuck Seelbach 6-3.

Iowa State—Lowest team batting average of .250. Soph right-hander Larry Corrigan No. 1 pitcher at 8-1 and 2.33 ERA. He also catches and leads hitters with .356.

364. Runs—Perez, Cincinnati 49; Henderson, San Francisco 49.

Runs batted in—Perez, Cincinnati 63; Bench, Cincinnati 54. Hits—Gaston, San Diego 79; Perez, Cincinnati 78.

Soccer Play Down to 8 Teams

By COLIN FROST

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The World Cup ends its preliminary round today with fame or failure still undecided for eight of the world's top soccer teams.

Italy and England are among the giants whose advance to the quarter-finals depends on today's four matches. Seldom has a World Cup reached the end of the preliminary round with so many issues undecided.

Of the 16 teams who came here to open the competition for the Jules Rimet Trophy, only Brazil, the Soviet Union, Uruguay, West Germany and Peru are definitely through to the quarter-final round.

Only three—El Salvador, Bulgaria and Morocco—are definitely out. That leaves three quarter-final places to be split among Mexico, Belgium, Italy, Sweden, Israel, England, Czechoslovakia and Rumania. And for some teams, like Sweden and Rumania, who have completed their three preliminaries, advance depends not on their own success but on other people's failures.

The 16 teams are divided into four groups. The top two in each group after round robin play advance to the sudden death part of the competition.

In Group One, Mexico and Belgium fight it out in the Great Aztec Stadium, Belgium must win to qualify. Mexico needs only a draw before a home crowd that will treat defeat as a national disaster. The Soviet Union, with five points from three games, is already a certain Group Three qualifier.

In Group Two, Uruguay is certain of either first or second place with three points from three games. Italy must get at least a draw against Israel's amateurs to be sure of a quarter-final place.

Israel can qualify by beating Italy by three clear goals. A smaller Israeli victory would give Sweden a chance of scraping through by lot.

In Group Three, Brazil is safely through with six points from three games. Second place in the group depends on today's England-Czechoslovakia match.

A draw will be enough to put England through. If the Czechs win, they will finish the round with two points along with Rumania and England and the place will be decided either by goal difference or by lot.

Salt Lake City Eager for BB Fame

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) —

Owner Bill Daniels of the newly relocated Utah Stars says he hopes to "make Salt Lake the Green Bay of professional basketball."

Daniels and his American Basketball Association team officially pulled up stakes Wednesday and moved from Los Angeles to this Mormon-dominated community.

At a news conference announcing the move, Daniels and other team officials expressed supreme confidence for next season.

They pointed out that the Stars jelled late last year under Coach Bill Sharman into a team that took the eventual champion Indiana Pacers to six games in the finals of the ABA playoffs. Daniels indicated the year-old

Three Hope teachers were recently honored by being presented with the Outstanding Educators Award Plaque of Hope Chamber of Commerce. Making the presentation was Mack McLarty, chairman of the education committee of the chamber.

The teachers, pictured above left to right are: Mrs. Neva Carmichael, Mrs. F. J. Burroughs and Miss Estelle Caldwell. They were chosen by their fellow teachers from these criteria: professional qualifications, classroom ability, contribution to community and innovations to improve the quality of education.

Mrs. Carmichael, who is retiring after 40 years of service, has taught 23 years in the Hope system. She started her teaching career in Dardanelle, then to Springfield, Plumerville, Morrilton, Prescott and to Hope in 1947. In the Hope system, she has taught at Hopewell, Shover Street school, Junior High and music in the high school. She served for 2 years as pianist for the Arkansas Congress of Parents and Teachers, one year as secretary and two years as program chairman for the Hempstead County Teachers Assn., two years as district program chairman, delegate to the National Teachers Assn. in 1964 in Seattle, member of the local PTA, ATA and AEA.

For 20 years she has been the pianist for Loneko Baptist church, state supervisor of girls for the Federated Clubs 2 years and a member of the Citizens Advisory Committee of the City of Hope.

Mrs. Burroughs came to Hope in August, 1942 and began teaching Civics in Hope High the fall of that year. She moved to the 5th grade in 1944 and taught in the elementary grades until 1955.

Mrs. Burroughs taught American History in Junior High until 1960 then taught General Science in the High school. This year the course was changed to Physical Science One.

She has been a member of the NEA, AEA and local PTA since she first started teaching. She was presented a "life membership" and pin by the president of the PTA in 1963.

Retiring this year, Mrs. Burroughs said, "My association with the Future Teachers of America has been one of the most rewarding experiences I have had during my work here in Hope High School. May I sincerely thank you for your love and patience with me during these years. May God Bless You."

Miss Caldwell started teaching in the Columbus school in 1943 in the elementary grades and came to Hope in the fall of 1953. She has taught the first grade at Paisley

Revival at Okay Begins June 15

Revival services will be held at Community Baptist church at Okay beginning June 15 at 7:30 p.m. and continuing through June 21.

Rev. Charles Jones will be the evangelist. Rev. Stacy Thrasher is pastor.

Salt Palace, where the Stars will play home games, was a major factor in bringing the team to Utah.

The sports-convention center can seat between 14,000 and 15,000 fans for basketball. It also is the home of the Golden Eagles of the Western Hockey League.

Baltimore Outhits California

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer "Hit 'em where they ain't," said a rather ungrammatical Wee Willie Keeler in baseball's long lost past. He would have loved the job the Baltimore Orioles did with that strategy Wednesday night.

The Orioles, perhaps beginning to feel the hot breath of the surprising New York Yankees on their backs, had a couple of hits fall just beyond the reach of California fielders and it added up to the winning run in a 2-1 victory over the Angels.

That triumph kept Baltimore 4½ games ahead of the red-hot Yankees in the suddenly developing American League East race. New York nipped Minnesota 2-1 for its seventh victory in the last eight games. Elsewhere in the AL, Detroit trimmed Milwaukee 7-5, Washington belted Kansas City 8-1, Oakland downed Cleveland 6-4 and Boston nipped Chicago 7-6 in 14 innings.

In National League action, it was Houston 5-3 over New York; Cincinnati 7, Montreal 0; Atlanta 5-1 over Philadelphia; San Francisco 4, Pittsburgh 2;

San Diego 11, Chicago 8, and Los Angeles 4, St. Louis 2.

The Orioles scored a run without a hit in the first inning and Jim Palmer made it stand up until the seventh when California's Jay Johnstone homered to tie the score. Then in the bottom of the seventh, things started going Baltimore's way.

With two out, Don Buford singled in the hole between third baseman Ken McMullen and shortstop Jim Fregosi. Merv Rettenmund followed with an opposite field drive which right fielder Roger Repoz barely missed near the wall. The shot went for a triple scoring Buford with the winning run.

Buford had walked and scored in the first after being trapped off first base in an aborted attempted steal. Sandy Alomar's throwing error in the rundown allowed Buford to reach third and he came in on a ground out.

Horace Clarke's two-run homer carried Mel Stottlemyre to a four-hit victory over Minnesota and rookie Bert Blyleven. Stottlemyre singled with two out in the fifth inning and Clarke followed with his fourth homer to erase an early Minnesota lead. Stottlemyre 6-4, struck out seven, walked one and did not allow a hit after the fourth inning when Tony Oliva opened with a triple and scored the Twins' run on Rich Reese's grounder.

Al Kaline produced two runs with a long homer and pinch hitter Gates Brown produced two more with a short single as Detroit rallied for four in the seventh to hand Milwaukee its 16th consecutive road defeat.

The Brewers tagged Earl Wilson for four runs in the second and were still leading 4-3 in the seventh when Kaline turned the game around with his two-run homer. Then, with the bases loaded later in the inning, Brown earned a single off Mike Hegan's glove for two more runs. Dick McAlliff had two homers for the Tigers.

Rico Petrocelli tipped his second grand slam homer in four days and Tony Conigliaro tied the score with a two-run shot in the ninth inning as Boston wiped out a five-run Chicago lead to beat the White Sox.

George Scott singled, raced to third on a passed ball and then scored on Bill Melton's error for the Red Sox' winning run in the 14th.

Reliever Paul Lindblad shut out a seventh inning Cleveland rally and preserved Oakland's victory over the Indians with last-out help from Mudcat Grant.

Lindblad pitched his way out of a two-on, none-out jam in the seventh and retired eight batters in order before yielding a two-out walk in the ninth. Then Grant came on to get the final out.

Kansas Is Track Favorite

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The University of Kansas looms as the favorite to win the team championship in the United States Track and Field Federation's meet at Wichita's Cessna Stadium Friday and Saturday.

The Jayhawks did not compete a year ago and are certain to face stiff competition from at least two other schools — Brigham Young and Tennessee. Brigham Young won the meet in 1969 with 44 points, and Tennessee was runner-up with 39½.

Behind BYU and Tennessee last year were Southern Illinois with 32 points, Western Michigan with 29 and Kansas State with 26. These three teams, likewise, could surprise.

The meet's officials found out Wednesday that Randy Matson, the world, American and collegiate shot put record holder from Texas A & M, definitely will be in Wichita for the two-day meet and shooting for another record. Matson's record is 71'4½".

It is in the shot put that Kansas will pin its hopes for the title.

Sentenced for Raid on Draft Hdqs.

CHICAGO (AP) — Seven anti-war activists have been sentenced to five years in prison for destroying Selective Service records. Three absent defendants, who a federal judge called ringleaders in the action, were given 10-year sentences.

In pronouncing sentence Tuesday, Judge Edwin A. Robson of U.S. District Court dismissed a defense contention that the demonstrators' action was nonviolent. He said the raid May 26, 1969, on a draft board complex was "violence, the violence that can bring about revolution."

He said he hoped the penalties were severe enough to deter other youths from staging similar attacks on draft boards.

The three defendants who disappeared in the final days of their trial were sentenced to five years on each of two counts, the terms to run consecutively.

Judge Robson said these three masterminded the assault on the Southwest Side draft offices where some records were thrown into a bonfire and paint was dumped on others.

The seven in court also were sentenced to five years on each of two counts, but Judge Robson said those terms would run concurrently.

The judge denied appeal bond for the seven defendants present. He said the disappearance of the three others was a major factor in his decision.

The seven have been in Cook County-Chicago jail since their conviction by a jury Friday.

Dandelion is a corruption of the French "dent de lion." The shape of its leaf resembles that of a lion's tooth.

Revival services will begin Sunday, June 14, at New Liberty Missionary Baptist church, 3 miles southeast of Emmet and continue through the 19th.

Rev. D. D. Fairchild will be evangelist. Rev. Harold Marcum is pastor. The public is invited.

The Board of Directors
City of Hope, Arkansas:

We have examined the following financial statements of the City of Hope, Arkansas as of December 31, 1969 and for the year then ended:

Combined Receipts and Disbursements
General Fund Receipts and Disbursements
Health Department Fund Receipts and Disbursements
Airport Fund Receipts and Disbursements
Street Fund Receipts and Disbursements
Sewer Revenue Bond Fund Receipts and Disbursements
Sewer Construction Fund Receipts and Disbursements
Sewer Revenue Bond Fund Balance Sheet
Firemen's Pension Fund Receipts and Disbursements

Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the above mentioned statements present fairly the cash position of the City of Hope, Arkansas at December 31, 1969 and the results of its recorded cash transactions for the year then ended, on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. The current year's supplementary data included in Schedules 1-10 have been subjected to the same auditing procedures and, in our opinion, are stated fairly in all material respects when considered in conjunction with the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Additional Political Filings

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Alex Streett, 31, of Russellville, brother of state Rep. Julian Streett of Camden, filed Wednesday as a Democratic candidate to oppose Prosecutor Jeff Mobley of Russellville in the 5th Judicial Circuit.

Streett said that Mobley had "abused" the prosecutor's office. He said Mobley, who is seeking a fifth term, had represented plaintiffs in civil cases in which criminal prosecution was pending.

He also said that Mobley had permitted deputy prosecutors to accept fees arising out of felony cases, although Streett said state law prohibited fees to be paid to the prosecutor's office.

In other filings Wednesday, Bill Bishop, 44, of Harrisburg entered the Senate race against Sen. Fred Stafford of Marked Tree, who holds Position 3 in District 24, which includes Craighead, Mississippi and Poinsett counties. Bishop, a Democrat, is a school principal.

Rep. Ivan Rose, 44, of Rogers, filed as a Democratic candidate for re-election to Position 2 in District 1, which is Benton County.

Rep. Walter Day, 52, of Blytheville filed as a Democratic candidate for re-election to Position 3 in District 18, which is Mississippi County.

Rep. Leon Holsted, 43, of North Little Rock filed for Democratic renomination to Position 5 in District 22, which includes Pulaski and Perry counties.

Della Todd, 35, of Rogers, president of a realty company, filed as a Democratic candidate for state representative in Position 1, District 1, which is Benton County.

Neal A. Millar, 66, Fayetteville, a retired engineer, filed as a Republican candidate for the House in Position 1, District 7, which is Washington County.

Paul Shaver, 30, of Fort Smith filed as a Democratic candidate for representative in Position 2, District 12, which is Sebastian County.

Two Russellville men, John H. Hawkins, 36, a Republican, and R. D. Howell, 47, a Democrat filed for the House in Position 1 of District 4, which includes Searcy, Marion and Pope counties.

Clifford Cole, 53, of Piggott filed as a Democratic candidate for representative in Position 1, District 6, which includes Clay and Randolph counties.

Sen. John F. "Mutt" Gibson, 54, of Dermott filed as a Democrat for re-election to District 22, which includes Desha, Drew and Chicot counties.

John Ward, 32, of North Little Rock, a Democrat, filed for state representative in Position 13 of District 22, which includes Pulaski and Perry counties. He is a lawyer.

Sees No Big GOP Gain in Legislature

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Charles D. Matthews, chairman of the state Democratic party, said Wednesday he did not think the Republican party had a chance to win 20 legislative seats in this year's election as Neal Sox Johnson, Republican party executive secretary, predicted Tuesday.

Johnson said the GOP would do well because of the "caliber of candidates we have and with the attitude of our party being in line with the thinking of the people in the state."

Matthews said he failed "to see any grassroots Republican strength necessary to win district offices."

Matthews said this should not be interpreted to mean the Republicans were offering only token opposition, but that it had been his experience that Republican strength at the grassroots level "is diminishing rather than gaining."

Also, he said, other areas of the state that have been traditionally Democratic "show no indication that there has been a significant shift of Democratic sentiment toward the Republicans."

Matthews also said he had no cause yet to have any "serious doubt" that the Democratic party would capture the governor's office after an absence of four years.

P.B. Arsenal May Become Study Center

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has asked the White House for permission to use the Pine Bluff Arsenal as a center to study biological problems, it was announced today.

Adrian Williamson, the executive director of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, said that former HEW Secretary Robert Finch had requested that control of the arsenal be transferred from the Department of Defense to HEW.

Finch's letter making the request to Dr. Lee DuBridge, science advisor to President Nixon, was sent Friday, a day before it was announced that Finch was leaving HEW to become an advisor to the president.

The letter asks for an appropriation of about $7 million a year beginning with the fiscal year starting July 1, 1971. Williamson said this amount would maintain the current arsenal staff level in the biological operation.

The biological staff now includes about 230 key professionals and about 100 other personnel. The overall employment is about 1,500.

The arsenal has been producing chemical and biological warfare agents.

Nixon had ordered a halt to the production of such agents.

Williamson said Finch's letter was the first major step in turning the arsenal's capacity for producing warfare agents to peaceful uses. He said that to carry out the transfer would require the president's approval and probably some legislation.

He added that it was fortunate that such a supporter of the arsenal's transfer as Finch was now a close advisor to Nixon.

Williamson said he was making the announcement on behalf of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., and Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark.

He also said that the departments of Agriculture and Interior were interested in participating in studies of biological problems at the arsenal. He said the destruct phase was scheduled for completion by June of next year.

The Army will maintain the chemical division of the arsenal.

Finch said the HEW project envisioned for the arsenal was an evaluation of the health hazards of pesticides and other toxic chemicals that may be presented in the environment. He said that HEW believed that with the biological facility at the arsenal it could devise test procedures to answer questions about the potential hazards to man of pesticides and other chemicals.

No Signals From Soviet Spaceship

BOCHUM, West Germany (AP) — The Bochum observatory said today that it had received no radio signals from the Soviet spaceship Soyuz 9 for 24 hours. But it said the satellite did not appear to be in trouble and that the silence was probably related to experiments being carried out by its two-man crew.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the two cosmonauts had completed their work program for their 10th day of flight, were in good condition and were having a rest.

Tass also reported that as of 5:31 a.m. EDT, Soyuz 9 had completed 155 orbits of the earth and cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov had been circling the globe for 230 hours.

Heinz Kaminski, director of the Bochum observatory, said the spacecraft transmitted its last radio signal picked up there about 4 a.m. EDT Wednesday. But he said the craft was photographed 13 hours later and appeared to be functioning normally.

Kaminski also said the observatory was receiving signals from Cosmos 346, leasing, Forfeited $121.15 cash bond.

Probe Death of Gun Collector

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Sheets hung across windows today at the big white stucco and brick house where federal agents joined police in investigating the shooting death of William E. Thoresen III, a millionaire gun collector.

In jail, booked for investigation of murder, was Thoresen's slim, brunette widow, Louise, 33, who ran to a neighbor's home Wednesday saying: "Bill has been shot. Call an ambulance."

The handsome Thoresen, 32, his nude body punctured by two or three pistol bullets in the chest, was found on a bed in a second floor room.

Police Chief H. R. Morton said FBI agents and agents from the U.S. Treasury Department firearms division are "interested in the circumstances."

Some agents were at the house late Wednesday, but there was no word on whether they had begun checking contents of a large number of boxes and cartons reported to have been stored there recently.

Earlier Police Capt. A. J. Bille said the shooting came "as a climax to a family quarrel." The Thoresens had started divorce proceedings in Phoenix, Ariz., last year, prior to moving here in November.

Gun collecting, which Thoresen said had been his hobby since he was 9, led to his conviction in March 1969 on a federal charge of illegal interstate shipment of firearms. The charge followed a 1967 raid on the Thoresens' San Francisco mansion and a warehouse where 77 tons of weapons and ammunition were seized, including machine guns and an antitank cannon.

The day before he died, Thoresen's appeal from the conviction was upheld in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco, which ordered a rehearing of the case.

While his appeal was pending Thoresen had been free on bail under sentence of six months in prison. He and his wife, convicted of aiding and abetting, were each fined $4,000 and she drew 18 months probation.

One Moment, Please, as Hal Boyle Sings an Ode to The Blues

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What is the most common malady of our times?

A doctor might say it was headache or head colds. A dentist would vote for tooth decay. A barber might nominate dandruff or, rather, the conditions that cause it.

But probably the most prevalent ailment that has preyed upon man in all ages and climates affects chiefly not his body but his mind. It is that disease of the human spirit known colloquially as "the blues."

You can get it from a hundred different specific causes. It can come from being broke, out of work, out of love or from just plain feeling "out of sorts" with everybody and everything. Often it merely consists of a nameless, aimless feeling of melancholy and futility—perhaps springing from an unconscious realization of how much the individual and his small dreams lie at the mercy of a vast universe indifferent to elation, the Washington Post has reported.

The newspaper said the staggering area in addition to existing under water bases along the central and southern portions of the Atlantic coast.

The Pentagon did not immediately confirm or deny the report.

Leading Battler for Women's Rights Sees But Little Change

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress "hasn't changed a particle" since she was elected to it in 1917, says Jeanette Rankin, the first woman to serve there. "It's still the same old club."

Nor has the condition of women changed much since then, said Miss Rankin, a leader in the female suffrage fight at the turn of the century. "The women's liberation movement is talking about the same issues now that we talked about then."

WR Defends Cambodian Move by U.S.

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller told Girls State delegates here Wednesday night that he believed President Nixon acted correctly in sending U.S. troops to attack Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia.

The delegates responded with a standing ovation, which Rockefeller said he would call to the President's attention by way of a note.

In a wide-range 20-minute talk in Lloyd England Hall, Rockefeller told the girls that campus violence would not be tolerated, that dissent is a basic American right, and that he once had sported a beard to a general's dismay.

The governor also said politics had not been involved in the delay prior to his announcing a decision to seek a third term.

Rockefeller obviously was emotionally moved minutes before his talk when, on a grassy plot outside the hall, he observed the Girls State ceremony of lowering the nation's flag. The banner rolled gently in the light breeze at dusk.

Delegates then stood solemnly in a large circle and softly sang, "Jesus Loves Me."

Inside the hall moments later, Rockefeller was misty-eyed when, in his speech, he told delegates that the tradition of folding the flag into a triangle harked back to the tri-cornered hats worn by Americans in their revolution against the British.

Just what can you do to snap out of it when you're feeling low and everything is going wrong? Here are a few suggestions given me by those interviewees, some famous, some merely infamous:

Stand on your head, literally, to get a different view of things. Take a cold shower. Walk or drive a different way home. Memorize a poem. Reread your old love letters. Clean out a closet. Count your blessings. Write down all the worries that are bothering you and then light a match and burn the paper, thus symbolically destroying them.

Avoid the people who bug you. Go window shopping. Cook a new dish you've never tried before.

Buy something brightly colored you've never dared wear.

See ONE MOMENT (on Page Two) from 1941-1943, Miss Rankin celebrates her 90th birthday today with a dinner in her honor sponsored by several senators and congressmen.

Slowed only a little by a broken hip suffered six weeks ago, Miss Rankin devotes much of her time to antiwar efforts and pushing for direct preferential presidential elections.

One of 56 congressmen to vote against American entry into World War I and the only member of Congress to vote against declaring war on Japan, Miss Rankin calls the American foray into Cambodia "wrong, stupid."

See LEADING Confirmation Certain for Richardson

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Elliot L. Richardson appears certain of Senate confirmation as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, but a major administration program he inherits with the job could be more of a problem.

The Senate Finance Committee called Richardson in today to start the confirmation proceedings with all indications pointing to a friendly reception to his appointment to succeed Robert H. Finch.

But there were few signs of agreement on President Nixon's welfare reform program, even though the White House rewrote the plan to counter Senate opposition.

Nixon resubmitted the reform package Wednesday after the Finance Committee told Finch six weeks ago to rewrite the proposal to make sure the plan would not discourage welfare recipients from working.

Nixon outlined revisions centering on an overhaul of the food stamp program and a new health insurance system for poor families, but delayed their introduction in Congress until next year.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., already has said he will insist on an administration analysis of the entire program to show Congress whether it will mean more income for poor people who take jobs and encourage them to accept employment.

Nixon, in his revised message, said his family assistance program indeed offered incentives to the poor to work, although he did not spell them out.

The revised version left intact the basic provision of the original administration plan: A yearly family assistance system providing a family of four $1,600 a year in federal cash benefits, with subsidies continuing on a sliding scale until household income passes $3,920.

There was evidence the new Nixon message would not satisfy Senate critics. While conservatives have complained about work incentives, the cost of the program, and the expansion of welfare rolls, liberals have proposed rival programs to offer higher benefits.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said it may be some time before the Finance Committee holds hearings on the revised package.

"We'll certainly study it," the committee chairman said. "The closer they come to having it make sense, the better."

Long also said committee members and technicians have some ideas of their own on steps to improve the administration package.

Viet Cong Massacre 70 in Village

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong troops attacked a South Vietnamese village south of Da Nang early today, killed 70 civilians and wounded 31 others in two hours of slaughter, U.S. officials reported.

Survivors said the Viet Cong invaded Ba Ren Hamlet behind a mortar barrage that set fire to many houses, then ran through the streets "shooting anyone they saw" and hurling grenades into homes and civilian bunkers.

The toll was expected to rise as rescue workers dug through the ruins of nearly 200 huts destroyed or badly damaged.

A U.S. officer who flew over the hamlet 17 miles southeast of Da Nang said it was about 90 per cent destroyed or damaged.

In addition to the civilian casualties, one U.S. marine was reported killed and 11 wounded. They were part of a combined action platoon of Marines and local Vietnamese militia stationed at a highway bridge just north of Ba Ren, and a small Viet Cong force attacked them as the main units hit the town.

The platoon reportedly killed 16 Viet Cong and captured one around the bridge, but reports in Da Nang said the enemy mortar barrage pinned down a squad of Marines and militia men who were in the hamlet, and they did not engage the attackers.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Command in Saigon reported a sharp drop in the total of American battlefield deaths last week, with 119 killed compared to 185 the previous week. But U.S. wounded rose from 757 to 1,823.

The command said "26 of the deaths and 235 of the wounded occurred in Cambodia. It said U.S. combat deaths in the Viet."

Some GIs Get Out of Army Early to Go to College, But Renege

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says some servicemen, let out of uniform early to go to college, are cheating on the privilege and failing to enroll. The service is so mad it is threatening to recall the culprits and possibly court-martial them.

As part of its effort to encourage more veterans to take advantage of GI schooling benefits—and ease pressure on the tightening labor market—the Nixon administration has expanded the 10-year-old program allowing a head start of up to 90 days for college-bound veterans to include vocational and technical schools.

But an Army circular suggests some men are using the early out program less to give them a head start on post service education and more as a loophole to early freedom.

A number of queries from colleges and universities indicate that some servicemen granted early separation to attend school are failing to enroll," the Army circular said, without giving any figures.

"This is a dangerous practice as it can backfire badly for those who obtain educational 'early outs' with the intent not to enroll or to make only a token enrollment."

In cases where substantial evidence of fraudulent intent exists, commanders were instructed to send fully documented details to Army headquarters in the Pentagon.

Several possible actions were listed:

—Revocation of discharge or release from service.

The man would then be returned to active duty, the Army said, and would be liable to disciplinary action which "could include courts martial for fraudulent separation" from service.

—Referral of the case to the Justice Department for possible prosecution in the civilian courts.

For those in a reserve status "elimination for misconduct."

Interstate Blocked by Some Cities

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been told it is questionable whether 13 segments of interstate highways, with an estimated construction cost of $3.9 billion, will be built.

"In some cities the responsible officials have declared the highway is not wanted and will not be constructed," Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe has told a House roads subcommittee.

In certain instances, he added, "the governors have made similar declarations." The issue involved on each segment differs—but the result is the same: A continuing delay. And, Volpe said, although each route has some major local significance, none is completely essential to an integrated national system.

Volpe and Federal Highway Administrator Francis Turner discussed the problems with subcommittee members Wednesday. Turner conceded it was the department's job to decide which segments make up the system—but he said he would like some guidance from the congressional panel.

The projected 42,500-mile system of interstate highways—begun by the Eisenhower administration in 1956—had a completion goal of 1971, but delays or cancellations experienced on 133 miles of road in major cities has pushed the finishing date to 1977.

2 Negro Boys Drown in Millwood

The bodies of two Negro youths were recovered at noon today near Beards Bluff land- ing at Millwood.

The victims were identified as Harold Johnson, 15 and Charles Johnson, 16, a cousin, both of Saratoga.

Recovery of the bodies was made by four game wardens, Charles Roden, Marvin Surber, Kenneth McElhannon and Ben Waller, Jr., who had been dragging the lake since early morning.

The two boys had been reported seen going swimming late Wednesday and their clothes were found on the bank.

The Hempstead County Rescue unit assisted in grappling operation.

Harrison Gets Airport Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., said today that the Economic Development Administration has awarded a $149,000 grant for construction of an industrial park and Boone County Regional Airport at Harrison.

The funds will be combined with a $89,000 grant from the Ozark Regional Commission for water lines to the airport and industrial park area and for construction at the airport.

Nashville Boy Dies in Crash

NASHVILLE — Bobby Joe Briggs, 16, of Nashville, was killed Wednesday while riding in a pickup truck which collided with a dump truck about 10 miles east of here on state Highway 24.

State Police Trooper Joe J. Craig said the pickup was attempting a left turn when the dump truck tried to pass it from the pickup.

Authorities identified the driver of the pickups Romilious Scroggins, 64, of Nashville and the driver of the dump truck as Eliska F. Burns, 57, of Patmos (Hempstead County). Funeral arrangements will be by Hicks Funeral Service in Hope.

Favors Voc. Training in High School

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Charles A. Brown of Little Rock, an announced candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, told a Little Rock civic club Wednesday that he favored more vocational education in the state's high schools.

Brown, a member of the Little Rock School Board, said an improved vocational training program would be one way to raise the state's per capita income and help solve the problem of low tax revenues.

Brown said that in recent years, tourism and industrial development in the state had slowed up, and that as governor he would work to increase both.

3 Charged in Death of Boy, 15

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — First-degree murder charges were filed Wednesday by Prosecutor Joe Holmes against three teenage boys in connection with the June 4 death of Alton Cave, 15, of Pine Bluff.

Charged were Terry Ray Lloyd, 14, of Marked Tree; Calvin Ford, 14, of Blytheville and Lloyd Byrd, 13, of Texarkana. All were in the Arkansas training school for boys here.

Cave died of injuries received June 2 when he was struck in the head apparently by a brick thrown from a work truck carrying several boys from the training school, according to Deputy Sheriff R. J. Crosssett.

Warm and Humid Next Few Days

Arkansas' weather will continue to be stagnant for the next two or three days, with warm, humid days and partly cloudy skies.

The U.S. Weather Bureau says a cold front to the west of the state will bring showers and thundershowers to Arkansas by the weekend.

The front was thought to be moving more rapidly, but the bureau predicts that it will control the state by this weekend.

Wednesday's weather was warm and humid with partly cloudy skies.

Highs Friday will be in the 80s to low 90s and the lows tonight will be in the 60s to low 70s.

The highs Wednesday ranged from 88 at Jonesboro, Pine Bluff, Little Rock and Memphis to 80 at Harrison.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville 69, Harrison 67, Jonesboro 69, Pine Bluff 69; Memphis 68, Little Rock 69, Fort Smith 72, Texarkana 71 and El Dorado 66.

No precipitation was recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.
